PrivacyPickup motorcyclist dies after crash on U.S. 22 By The Associated Press WINDER, Ind. (AP) -- A 33-year-old Indiana man was killed Wednesday in a crash when he lost control of his pickup on a snowy highway in western Indiana. The Indiana State Police said David Chontad, of Elgin, was driving a 1995 GMC pickup south on U.S. 22 just north of the interchange for Interstate 70 when he lost control on the slick road shortly before 3 p.m. Wednesday. The police said the truck struck a guardrail and rolled into a ditch. Chontad, who was not wearing a seatbelt, was thrown out of the pickup and landed in the path of a northbound tractor-trailer. Police said it appeared Chontad was on the phone at the time of the crash. The tractor-trailer driver was taken to a hospital with minor injuries. Chontad's family was not available for comment Wednesday. About 20 people who witnessed the crash stopped to help the crash victim. They used a ladder to extricate him from the truck. The highway was closed in both directions for about two hours. The highway reopened at about 4:15 p.m. A stretch of U.S. 22 near Indianapolis, west of Indianapolis, has been the scene of a number of motorcycle crashes this winter. A 23-year-old man was
