The DoozeControl is a USB doodad for controlling a video camera and camera tripod. It has a stable stand, sturdy bumper bar and an easy control mechanism, including five large buttons, and a joystick/direction-pad (easily removable). In conjunction with its popular stand, it provides a stable platform for mounting any of its four versatile cameras, including a webcam. Additionally, the stand enables full 360-degree panning control. Two of the cameras are optimized for the DoozeControl: a web-cam, and a GoPro-like waterproof camera. Both utilize a screwless, unbreakable mounting base with a built-in lens covering. The mounting base has three positions: near the device, at half-height, and at the top, so it can be mounted on a desk, table, railing, chair, or tripod. The third camera is a professional-quality camera for architectural and aerial photography. It is designed to work with the DoozeControl's classic video-tripod stand (sold separately). The DOOZEcontrol includes an an instant replay function for the camera. You can playback the entire recording in real-time on the DoozeControl or choose to save it to the hard drive for

In order to be successful, you need to have a good idea about your future. One way to achieve that is by analyzing your strengths and weaknesses. To start with, you should have an idea about your competitive advantage and why it makes sense to invest in it. This article will introduce you to competitive advantage and why it is important. You'll also see how to go about identifying your competitive advantage.

Competitive Advantage - What Is It?

Competitive advantage is the first step towards growth. Without it, you are stuck. No matter how strong your product, if you are not able to exploit your strengths, you will simply get outpaced by your competitors. Let's say you are running a service business and you want to be your best in this business. You will be able to come up with your greatest strength which is the ability to deliver excellent services to your customers. This strength should not be pursued without any consideration, however. Your competitive advantage should be something that will ensure that you can deliver on your promises. For example, if your service business revolves around fixing appliances, you might want to focus on being able to repair complex appliances with great accuracy. Your competitive advantage in this case is your ability to detect abnormalities of a machine and be able to fix it in a quick, yet accurate way. To sum up, competitive advantage is how you are different from others. It is about your advantages and how these can be turned into a competitive advantage. What Are The Types Of Competitive Advantages? There are two types of competitive advantage. They are called the comparative and functional advantages. This is because in a normal business, it is the advantages that you have over your competitors that makes you stand out. Comparative advantage is the advantage that you have over your competitors which is the one that you will use to establish your competitive advantage. In this case, it is a quality or product that is different from your competitors. It can be anything, such as a product that is cheaper, better, more stylish, more reliable, and so on. The functional advantage is one that you have over your competitors in the way that your product is used. It is a unique and useful application of your product. If you are able to deliver more than others, you have an advantage over your competitors. This gives you an advantage in a market where there are a lot of competitors. How Do You Identify Your Competitive Advantage? One way to identify your competitive advantage is by comparing yourself to your
